BRITISH AIR PACT STATEMENT MIXED RECEPTION BY PRESS CONVENTION URGED BY "TIMES"

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL

London, Yesterday.
Sir John Simon's statement concerning the proposed air pact, which was made in the House of Commons yesterday and which is very likely to have been the last official statement delivered by him in his capacity of Foreign Secretary, was received with somewhat mixed feelings by the Press.

The papers welcome on the one hand the announcement that the negotiations for an air pact are making favourable progress, and, although Sir John Simon did not utter the word "conference," some passages of his speech are generally interpreted as foreshadowing an air conference for the near future.

The majority of the papers, on the other hand, stress that the Government has not taken full advantage of the possibilities offered by Reichsfuehrer Hitler's speech.

The police initiated the promised drive against bankers and other persons suspected to be speculating on the fall of the franc yesterday by making domiciliary visits to 17 banks and private apartments, according to press reports here today.

The authorities withheld the names of the persons involved, but it is stated that a prominent firm dealing in precious metals was one of the victims of the action taken by the police, who made it thorough.

NEW FRENCH CABINET INCLINES TO LEFT HANDSOME MAJORITIES EXPECTED

BUDGET REFORM AND FRANC DEFENCE MAIN OBJECTIVES

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL

Paris, Yesterday.

After prolonged negotiations with the party leaders the President of the French Chamber, M. Fernand Bouisson, at last succeeded in forming a new Cabinet, which, as M. Bouisson told the Press, will be supported by all the party groups except the Communists and the Old Socialists and will thus be based on a "broad front of national union." The new Premier will call at the Elysee Palace at 11 o'clock this morning and will present a Cabinet list to President Lebrun.

The decrees announcing the appointments of the new Ministers will be published in to-morrow's Journal Officiel, and the Cabinet will make its first appearance before the Chamber on Tuesday.

It is stated that the Premier offered a Cabinet post to M. Franklin-Bouillon. The latter, however, declined to accept a Portfolio, remarking that he wished to continue his campaign for a "National Union."

CHINA SEEKS CO-OPERATION IN DRUG DRIVE

Dr. Victor Hoo's Appeal At Geneva

EXECUTION PROPOSALS NOT FAVOURED

Geneva, Yesterday.

An appeal to foreign Governments to support the Chinese Government's efforts to combat the drug traffic in China by preventing the foreign concessions from being used as centres for the illicit traffic, was made by Dr. Victor Hoo at a meeting of the Opium Advisory Commission today.

Dr. Hoo revealed that 263 drug traffickers were summarily executed in China last year and over 100,000 opium smokers discharged from hospitals as cured, but the figures of opium addicts still ran into millions.

The members of the Commission expressed approval of the Chinese Government's efforts, but were reluctant to endorse the Government's proposals to execute all uncured addicts after 1937.

JAPANESE DEMANDS IN MONGOLIA

Teh Wang Leaves For Peiping

Peiping, Yesterday.

It is learned on the best authority that a Japanese plane recently landed at Pang Kung at Prince Teh Wang's Palace, and the Japanese officer who was the passenger laid before him certain demands, which included the right of the Kwantung army to establish a branch of the motor-road from Manchukuo to Mongolia, and the removal of the capital of Inner Mongolia from Peking to Besenliao.

It is understood that these demands prompted Prince Teh Wang's visit to Peiping to consult with General Ho Ying-ching.—Reuter.

Tension Increased By New Duty On French Motor-Cars

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL
Madrid, Yesterday.

The tariff war between France and Spain has been intensified as the result of the Spanish Government's decision to impose a special duty on French motor-cars entering this country.

As France has hitherto taken first place among the exporters of cars to Spain, this measure is expected to have far-reaching consequences for the French automobile industry.—Trans-Ocean Service.

CANTON RIVER TRAFFIC HELD UP BY FLOODS

FATSHAN CITY REPORTED TO BE TWO FEET UNDER WATER

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT)

Canton, Yesterday.

Several streets in different boroughs of the city were flooded this morning and afternoon by heavy rain. The water then receded a little, but will rise again late this afternoon at the flow of the Pearl River.

The North, East and West Rivers are also rising. While the inundation is not serious, the East River is now dangerously swift. Between towns in Ho Yuen and Lo Lung on the upper reaches of the river, diesel-driven boats are still maintaining traffic.

Communications along the West River have also been affected by the rising flood. Fatshan, an important city 30 miles from here, is two feet under water. The two main motor roads, however, are not flooded, being several feet higher than the narrow streets.

Rowboats in Canton harbour have to proceed with caution owing to the rapid flow of the water, and river steamers from Hong Kong and Macao have to go very slowly if they are with the tide.

The flood has deepened at Three Joss Sticks, six miles from here, which was the scene of many vessels being stranded during the dry winter months. Now it is quite navigable for all kinds of steamers on the Pearl River.

An official statement from Buckingham Palace says that the King's cold remains slight.

ONE IN FOURTEEN ESCAPES DEATH WHOLESALE CREMATIONS TO AVOID DISEASE

SLEEPERS TRAPPED IN BEDS

Karachi, Yesterday.

The full scope of the earthquake disaster which has practically razed the town of Quetta to the ground, with heavy loss of life and enormous material damage, is only just beginning to be known with the first accounts of eye-witnesses and survivors.

Many dramatic stories of narrow escapes are told. One Karachi business man said that he and four friends were seated in front of the house when they heard terrible rumblings. They took flight and ran into the open, and within a few seconds the house had crashed to the earth in ruins.

The incidence of the shocks may be gauged from the story of another survivor. He said that at Shikarpur the first shock was felt at three o'clock in the morning, and lasted three minutes. The first quake was followed by minor shocks at intervals which lasted throughout the whole night and the next day until about two o'clock in the afternoon.

The death roll of the earthquake is severe, and terrible scenes were witnessed in the city. Owing to the fact that many sleepers were trapped in their beds, the cries of women and children rent the air; but there was no response, as the calamity was widespread over the whole station and the staff were crushed to death by the debris, with only a single exception.

The whole of the town of Shikarpur is in a state of mourning. There is not a single house which has not been visited by tragedy, with at least one of its inmates dead. The dead bodies are being burned and buried quickly to prevent a visitation of that dreaded concomitant of such visitations: disease.

Durdas Mal and Anwar, two of the 16 Indian cricketers who went to play in a match at Quetta were killed, the others being saved.

The full force of the catastrophe may be gauged by the remark of another survivor of the tragic visitation. He declared that the only question was: How many were alive, and how many buildings were still standing? He added a graphic picture of the desolation by recounting how many survivors, unmindful of their tattered clothes, were roaming about searching for their relatives, dead or alive, despite the lack of food.

PROMPT RELIEF MEASURES
The relief measures have been prompt and thorough. No less than 60 doctors have arrived by special train from Lahore. It is learned (Continued on Page 15)

MARTIAL LAW PROCLAIMED

Hospital Destroyed: 30,000 Casualties

A later message says that martial law has been proclaimed in the whole affected area. Unofficial estimates now put the casualties at 30,000. The General Hospital was razed to the ground and 200 out of 300 patients were killed.

A Poona message says that Dr. A. R. Normand, Director-General of Observatories, has learned that the meteorological office at Quetta and the house of Mr. A. K. Roy, the meteorologist, were demolished. Mr. Roy's three children were killed and Mr. Roy himself was injured. Mr. Normand has received no weather report from Baluchistan since the earthquake.—Reuter.

(Earlier messages relating to the earthquake appear on page 12.)

KIDNAPPED BOY FOUND BY ROADSIDE

Motorist Discovers Lumber King's Son

$200,000 RANSOM CASE ENDS

Tacoma, Washington, to-day.

George Philipp Weyerhaeuser has been found on the roadside by a motorist, who is taking him to the police station.—Reuter.

A message sent last Saturday stated that Federal and local officials were seeking a solution of one of the most sensational kidnapping cases on record, the kidnapping of George Philipp Weyerhaeuser, son of a millionaire lumber operator, for whose return $200,000 ransom was being sought.

Officials and members of the family declined to discuss the case. However, it was definitely learned that J. P. Weyerhaeuser, Jr., the boy's father, received a special delivery letter containing a typewritten note demanding the pretentious sum of $200,000.

The signature of the boy on the note established its authenticity. (Continued on Page 15)

Tea Tastes Better With Biscuits

By Doris Tisdale,
Royal Baking Institute

FEATHER-light biscuits served piping hot make a perfect complement for tea. These dainty biscuits, so popular in America, are now becoming the fashion in the Far East. Your first biscuits can be as light and delicious as those of the most experienced cook. There's really no secret to baking perfect biscuits... just a few simple rules to follow and, of course, you must use dependable baking powder.

Baking powder is such an important ingredient in biscuits that most cook books refer to them as "Baking Powder Biscuits." Royal Baking Powder has been the choice of food experts and thrifty housewives for over 65 years. This famous baking powder assures tender, flaky biscuits every time.

For Perfect Biscuits, remember these few simple rules:
1. Handle biscuit dough quickly and lightly and only long enough to give it a smooth appearance. Use as little flour as possible on the board.
2. Roll or pat dough lightly to the desired even thickness.
3. Bake in quick oven or place biscuits on slightly greased griddle and bake on top of stove, until well browned and puffed up, then turn and brown other side.

To keep biscuit dough:
Biscuits may be mixed, cut out and kept several hours before baking.
Brush with melted butter to prevent dry crust from forming over the tops.
Keep well covered.
Place in refrigerator or other cool place.
Remove from refrigerator 1/4 hr. before baking and let stand at room temperature to "warm up."

Recipe:
Sift together 2 cups flour, 4 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder and 1/2 teaspoon salt; add 4 tablespoons butter or lard and mix thoroughly. Add 3/4 cup milk or water to make soft dough. Turn out on floured board and toss lightly until outside looks smooth. Roll out 1/2 inch thick. Cut with floured biscuit cutter. Place on greased pan. Bake in hot oven (475 degree F. or in oven hot enough to brown piece of white unglazed paper in 1/4 minute) about 12 minutes. Serve hot.

EVENING GOWNS FOR SUMMER

WHITE ADVOCATED BY DRESS MAKERS

WHITE for moonlit summer evenings is advocated by a dressmaker. But white does not mean just plain white, which is all very well in small quantities. He trims his evening gowns with prune, midnight blue, nigger brown and black, and the effect is unusual but attractive. Rustling faille is still popular with this designer—but always in white—and floating chiffon will also play a large part in his white parade.

Another tailor, by the way, proposes some crepe tulle in rich prints that rustle with every step; he also shows a dress in crepe de satin in a shade of pink, which is one of the most delicate ever seen. The long skirt is very wide and stands out amusingly from the figure, and the bodice is plain, topped by a little tailored jacket of plain faille in a totally different shade of rose.

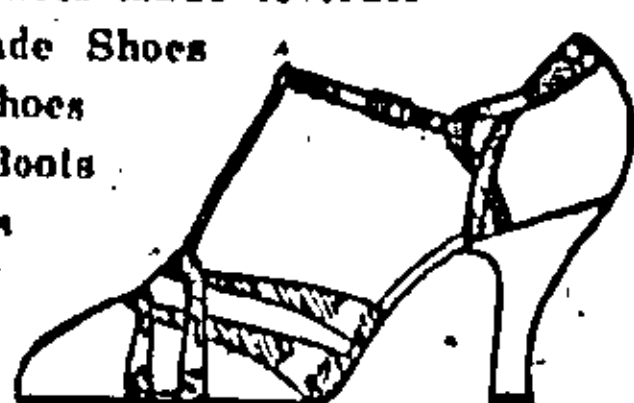

TOWN SUITS

Navy Again Challenges Black As Favourite

NAVY once again challenges black as a favourite for the town suit. Navy serge-silk or a heavy crepe is smart made with a neat trim short skirt and cut-away jacket. With it can go a white blouse with castellated frills embroidered with dark and pale blue dots. The hat and accessories should spell perfection. A happy choice is a navy straw crepe, with a flat crown of white crepe and the edge softened by a clever veil. The bag, gloves and shoes could be of fine dark navy kid, intercepted with touches of white.

SUMMER FASHIONS

Making Up Of Prints With Plain Fabrics

AFTERNOON REQUIREMENTS

BLACK with black and white prints is featured extensively for the formal afternoon requirements of the modern woman. One black ensemble, consisting of a dress with a fairly wide bell skirt, with topped by an old-fashioned jacket-cape, caught in at the waist. The cape collar and the basque were outlined by a deep hem of black and white printed taffeta. Another less extravagant model in navy blue featured a diagonal, woven design on white, with the dress fastening also diagonally, with two elongated revers faced with the printed fabric.

One of the points of summer fashions is going to be this making up of prints with plain fabrics, and while the dresses themselves are often of the plain fabric, the collar, cuffs, belt and revers will be fashioned with the print.

HAND PAINTED BAGS

A NOVELTY MADE TO CONTAIN BEAUTY FITTINGS

ARTISTS are finding a fascinating employment for facile brushes in the new vogue for hand-painted handbags.

An attractive country scene, gay with blue and pink dolphins and tall green trees against a golden pale yellow sky adorned a blue leather handbag designed for use with a soft pale blue woollen suit and a hat in the same spring-like colouring. These leather bags are small, flat and—at present—exclusive.

A novel beauty bag in supple black leather has its several fittings for powder, creams, perfumes, cigarettes and so on, in bright scarlet plastic. Every fitting is flat and compact, and the bag, a half circle in shape, has a zip fastening around the semi-circle so that it can be opened quite flatly.

THE PRACTICAL STORM-COAT

Wearer Impervious To Weather

FOR real country no one should be without the practical storm-coat in tweed or camel's hair. These are belted and buckled in true hard-wear styles, which render the wearer impervious to wind or weather.

A rather unusual model after this style was seen in preparation for the Liverpool Meeting. It was of pure camel's hair, lined with a pale shade of angora wool, and showed a high storm collar and cuffs of brown astrakhan, inset with soft brown leather. There was a belt to match. The big brown gauntlet gloves matched high boots and a cow-boy's hat. This was in dark brown felt.

ACCESSORIES HELP TO BRIGHTEN UP DARK SUITS

FLORAL FASHIONS GO ON

BELTS, like buttons, promise much help and the cambric flower to brighten the dark suit, or a colourful posy and spray for more formal afternoon and demi-toilette must be considered.

The band of flowers, that holds the neck drapery up, is a good way of altering a half-worn black dinner dress. The floral craze will continue throughout this summer. Crystal buttons—white and coloured—are attractive on black or red chiffon and a wide coloured sash can be added.

A BEAUTY DRINK

LEMON BARLEY WATER CLEARS COMPLEXION

FOR a beauty drink try five or six glasses of Lemon Barley Water a day. All you need is a third of a glass of it filled up with plain water. It's marvellous for weight-reducing, and clearing the complexion.

And if you go down with a beastly cold, don't despair. Just hop into bed and have someone bring you a glass of it hot. How you'll sleep after it. And in the morning you'll say, "That's funny. I thought I had a cold coming on. It seems to have gone."

A TALK ON STOCKINGS

MUST BE CAREFULLY SELECTED

SOME WEAR THEM INSIDE OUT

(By Vera Boyes)

WHAT do you know about stockings? Where do you buy them, and how do you ask for them? Have you a favourite make, or do you just risk it and get them from the bargain heap on the counter?

You think about your hat and dress and bag, but do you ever think seriously about your stockings?

The long heel, the square heel, the short heel—which suits your foot the best?

If you have a long, narrow foot with a highly arched instep you will have difficulty in getting well-fitting stockings—they will tend to wrinkle round the heel.

To prevent this, buy them a trifle large, and then take in a tiny tuck under the heel and stitch flat. This will give you a perfect fit.

Many smart women wear them inside out, because this way they look much more expensive. You can trim off the ends quite tidily. Look at the foot—and if you wear low-cut shoes or sandals, remember to get those with "sandal-soles."

Good stockings need never have rings, and many are guaranteed ringless. Some have special latex tops, to prevent ladders, and one make is anti-ravel and two-way stretch, and has such a pretty knee that it seems a pity to hide it!

Remember, the duller they are the better—strange to say! And wash them yourself, and roll in a towel before hanging up, to prevent the moisture from weighing down the stocking and pulling it out of shape.

OXFORD DRAW WITH LEICESTER IN LOW SCORING GAME

Squires' Century For Surrey

London, Yesterday.

Checked by Oxford University and the M.C.C. in the course of their first eight games, the South African cricket tourists yesterday won their ninth game when they beat Derbyshire by 209 runs.

The visitors' first innings total of 443 was featured by the century stand by Viljoen and Cameron, the wicket-keeper, both of whom reached three figures for the first time on the present tour. Viljoen had previously scored 93 against Leicester. Siedle's 98 in the second innings represented his fourth big score this season; he had previously hit up 104 not out against Surrey, 164 not out against Oxford, and 132 against the M.C.C.

In the course of their nine games the South Africans have beaten Worcester, Leicester, Cambridge University, Surrey, Hampshire, Middlesex, and Derbyshire.

Geary Deadly

Despite accurate bowling by George Geary and Astill, two veterans of the game, Leicester were in arrears of the Oxford total of 149 in their drawn game. Play was completely held up yesterday owing to rain.

J. C. Squires, a powerful hitter, took 106 of the Gloucester bowling at the Oval, but Surrey had to be content with only first innings points, Gloucester being 139 runs in arrears with only three wickets in hand at the close of play.

Results, as cabled by Reuter, were as follows:

The South Africans beat Derbyshire by 209 runs at Ilkerton. South Africans: 443 (J. Viljoen 152 and H. B. Cameron 132). 200 for 4 dec. (J. Siedle 98). Derby: 236 and 198.

Oxford University drew with Leicestershire at Oxford. Oxford: 149 (Geary 7 for 30) and 108 (Astill 9 for 10). Leicester: 109 (Darwall Smith 6 for 41) and 23 for 4.

Surrey beat Gloucestershire on the first innings at the Oval. Surrey: 344 and 252 for 4 dec. (J. C. Squires 100). Gloucester: 205 and 192 for 7.

RECREIO TAKE LEAD IN BOWLS RACE

BUT JUNIORS LOSE GRIP ON SODDEN GREEN

THREE GAMES POSTPONED

IN the absence of the champions, Craigengower "A," who were without a fixture yesterday, the Recreio established themselves as leaders in the First Division of the Lawn Bowls League when they decisively defeated the Kowloon Cricket Club in their away fixture, while Craigengower "B" caused a minor sensation by beating the Bowling Green Club by one shot!

The programme was curtailed by sodden greens, the senior clash between the Civil Service and the Indians, and the two junior encounters between the Yachtsmen and the Bowling Green, and the Footballers and Craigengower, were postponed.

The Recreio juniors, who were in a challenging position to the Bowling Green for Second Division honours, received an unexpected setback yesterday at the hands of the K.C.C. who avenged their senior team's defeat.

Only one 7-shot was recorded yesterday, F. X. Silva's Recreio quartette, comprising A. A. Remedios, J. G. Ozorio, and L. A. Gutierrez, accomplishing the feat against R. P. Phillips' vanquished four, while H. Westlake's Civil Service rink scored a 6 against W. Muskett's victorious Electric four.

Derby Day Wins

Australian Boy's fine run in the Brisbane Spring Handicap at the last meeting made him favourite for the Bondi Handicap, despite Derby Day's fine showings over sprint distances earlier in the season.
Contrary to all expectations, Derby Day was not on his toes at the start and it was not until half way down the back straight that he secured the lead from Just That; he increased this to two lengths before flashing past the post, still full of running, ahead of Mr. Soth's entry.
Boblink Star, which was prominent up to the corner into the home straight faltered badly in the home straight where he was displaced by Australian Boy, the favourite. Mr. Ralph, who made his first appearance at the Valley after an absence of eight years, secured fifth place on Goldsmith.

$24,674.30 CASH SWEEP WON BY SHORT HEAD

MR. BLACK AGAIN HEADS JOCKEYS' LIST

JUST THAT PAYS $94.70

FORGET-ME-NOT'S win in the Juling Stakes, which decided a sweep valued at $57,975 and a "double" worth $14,269.20, proved the outstanding feature of the Seventh Extra Race Meeting, the last of the first half of the season, at the Valley yesterday.

Only two favourites won during the eight races and the $94.70 paid out on Mr. Harold Seth's Just That (Mr. Butler) was the only big dividend of the afternoon, though the 132 backers who bracketed Pride of Tsingtao and Forget-me-not were each rewarded with $108.10 on the "daily double."

Mr. Donald Black, for the third meeting in succession, headed the jockeys' list, riding two firsts, a second, and a third in six starts.

Having registered six wins in the last two meetings, Mr. D. Black, the most improved jockey of the year, caused a mild upset when he brought home Bonny Dundee two lengths to the good of Clear View (Mr. Liang), the favourite, in the Beaufort Handicap, the first event on the card of eight races.

Securing a good position at the start, Mr. Black again showed good judgment, timing his final effort to perfection, though Bonny Dundee bore out badly in the home straight, costing him at least a length—a protest was lodged, but not sustained.

Tammany Hall made the running up to the Rock, followed by Flyby-night and Bonny Dundee, who moved up nicely in the back straight. Once in the home straight Bonny Dundee shook off Clear View and came home an easy winner. Flyby-night beat Tammany Hall for fourth place.
Twenty Grand, winner at Macao last Sunday and a favoured candidate for the race, did not accept.

The following was the draw for the Juling Stakes:

Beginner's Luck	57434
Blacksmith	32604
Bold Major	56868
Coppersmith	23262
Flamingo (2nd)	34067
Forgemaster	4689
Forget-me-not (1st)	42629
High West	35201
Locksley Hall	26683
Matinee Idol	17754
Pavane	1165
The Deemster (3rd)	2224
The Rain Gauge	622
1st Prize	$24674.30
2nd Prize	$7049.80
3rd Prize	$3524.90
Unplaced ponies	$881.20

Star second.

What a Chance set the pace at the start with "Fi Fa," piloted by Mr. Ralph, veteran rider who took out Jardine candidates eight years ago, and Gold Bullion. The L.T.F. hope led into the straight, only to see Pride of Tsingtao again come from behind to win as he pleased in slow time. Solar Star finished third, ahead of Sarabande, which ran extraordinarily well in the earlier stages of the race.

$94.70 Dividend

The afternoon's biggest dividend was returned when Mr. Seth's Just That (Mr. Butler) beat Night Star, the favourite, by a length to pay $94.70 in the Manly Handicap.

Atlas was first away from the barrier, but he could not stave off Just That, being displaced after passing the Rock. Apparently certain of securing third place, Mr. Frost was caught napping by Alacrit's powerful finish under Mr. Black and was nosed out on the post, Mr. Reidy's pony coming up perfectly on the outside after a very poor start.

Favourite Beaten

High West was made a hot favourite for the Juling Stakes, the $1 sweep on which was worth $57,975, but he badly failed his 387 "double" backers after passing the Rock.

Valorous Triumphs

Mr. Frost upset the punters when he secured an easy win on the first time in Helenside colours, in the Lantao Handicap. Gold Coin (Mr. Black) came second, and Racing Boy (Mr. Ph) just nosed out Flirt, the favourite, which made two false starts, for third place.

Gold Coin led all the way into the home straight, but tired quickly in addition to boring out. Spina-away, favoured after his fine showing behind Bayardo last time out, finished nowhere after being prominent at the Rock.

Mr. Black's Second Win

Boxing Eve, Matinee Idol, and Warrington did not accept for the Lantao Handicap, first leg of the "double," and Pride of Tsingtao, winner on his last two outings, was made favourite with Solar

GENEVA'S PANTHEON OF PEACE

League Of Nations'
£2,000,000 Palace

Most Ambitious Structure
Of Modern Europe

(By Noel Panter)

THE eyes of the world have been fixed upon the League of Nations recently. The conferences at Geneva, which have contributed towards forming the destiny of post-war Europe, have been held in a building — actually an adapted hotel — which is unworthy of such great events. A makeshift structure at the best, it has been added to and supplemented from time to time.

It has now outlived its usefulness, and it is perhaps a happy augury that just when the League has successfully survived the greatest trial since its inception, the new Palace of the League of Nations is on the eve of completion. It is to be a Pantheon of peace, and its portals will be open to messengers of good will and the emissaries of international co-operation.

It is the most ambitiously conceived modern structure in Europe. An idea of its size may be gained from the following facts:

The total length is about 400 yards. It has 1,600 windows and as many doors. Its volume is about 400,000 cubic metres, or approximately that of the Palace of Versailles. The total electric power for lighting, heating and ventilation works out at roughly 3,000 h.p., while the wiring if extended in a single filament would form a circle round the Lake of Geneva.

Building Fund by the Nations There are more than 100 dynamos and motors. There are 22 passenger and goods lifts. The building stands in grounds of about 50 acres, and is sufficiently far removed from rail and road traffic to ensure tranquillity and pleasant conditions. From the terraces and gardens an entrancing view may be obtained of the blue-tinted lake and the distant, white-capped summit of Mont Blanc.

The total cost amounts to about £2,000,000. This sum is made up of contributions to the building fund by the nations which are members of the League, in proportion to their subscriptions to the League budget, and large gifts. The whole of the structural work is now finished.

The internal fitting of the secretariat is nearing completion. The painting is almost finished, and a large proportion of the lighting has been installed. Even the linoleum has been laid on some of the office floors. In spite of this, no definite date for the opening ceremony can be given, but it is certain to take place this year.

The construction was by public tender, and was completed by firms of various nationalities. The structural work was done by Swiss, French and Italian concerns, while to British manufacturers was entrusted the making of steel window-frames and the library shelving.

The new palace is a building devoid of needless embellishment. The lines are on the classical model, blended with the modern conception of creating effects, not by decorative art but by the grouping of surfaces. The architects have renowned pillars and architraves in order to subordinate and conceal the mechanics of construction. The five architects responsible for the plans are:

H. P. Nenot, who acted as president of the architectural committee, and was a member of the French Institute. He was the architect of the Sorbonne. Aged about 83, he was killed only recently in a motor accident.

Jules Flegenheimer, who collaborated with him in drawing up a joint plan, is a Genevese architect.

Camille Lefevre, a Frenchman, is now inspector of the national buildings in Paris.

Carlo Broggi, an Italian, is the director of constructions, on whose shoulders has rested the responsibility of superintending the building operations.

M. Bago is a Hungarian architect.

The above were found by a jury of experts to be the most successful candidates in an international competition launched under the auspices of the League. The final plans were arrived at by co-operation of these architects according to a mutually agreed scheme, which embraced certain specifications laid down by the League secretariat.

Vast Library on Ten Floors The left of the building will be the home of the secretariat. Here there are five floors of approximately 600 offices, in addition to committee-rooms. In two basement floors will be housed the archives and files of documents.

On the extreme right in the library building, with 10 floors of books, containing about 1,500,000 volumes. Here there are two large and magnificently equipped reading-rooms. One is devoted entirely to periodicals and the other to books. A museum, rows of apartments for study in an upper floor, and technical reference libraries on subjects such as hygiene, medicine, geography and political economy, complete this side of the building.

In the centre is the vast Assembly Hall, which can accommodate about 2,500 people. On the ground floor will be the delegates with their expert advisers, secretaries and translators, while in three galleries the Press and public will be accommodated.

Near the hall are large committee rooms, each of which can seat about 300 visitors. In the wings near the central block are a further 12 committee rooms, varying from 100 square metres to 350 square metres in size, and each accommodating from 100 to 800 people. At the top of the Assembly building a large restaurant will be installed. In the summer its open terraces, giving an unobstructed view of the beautiful surroundings, will provide relaxation for delegates and their friends.

The heating and ventilation of this vast structure was one of the main problems confronting the architects. It is believed that it has been ideally solved. In the cellars there are large ventilating and refrigerating plants. There are also six mammoth boilers with automatically regulated burners.

State and Private Gifts The new palace will owe much to the munificence of foreign Governments and citizens. Mr. John Rockefeller, jun., for instance, contributed $2,000,000 (equivalent to £400,000 at par) to cover the cost of the library building. Other wealthy patrons have made valuable gifts, while foreign Governments have vied with one another in contributing items such as furniture, sculpture and decorations.

The British Government is playing its part in this important work. The Republic and Canton of Geneva constructed free of charge the disarmament building in a section of the present League. The Swiss Government has now guaranteed to pay an adequate sum for the whole of the old building. This will provide valuable relief to the building fund.

The foundation-stone of the new palace, which has been the object of some flippant comment, is situated in the central foundation wall of the Assembly building. It contains certain valuable parchments and gold coins representative of several nations.

Enthusiastic Audience Shows Approval

ENTERPRISE REWARDED

The Gloucester Trio made an enthusiastic debut last night at the Hotel Gloucester, playing from seven to eight in the Lounge on the ground floor, and from 8.30 to 10.30 in the Dining Room on the Terrace.

The evening was a great success in every way. The musicians were congratulated on their discriminating selections and distinguished rendition; and Mr. P. Chessex, Manager of the Hotel, who has recently come to Hong Kong from the Palace and Astor House Hotels in Shanghai, was highly praised for having adopted this musical innovation for the entertainment of his guests, and was also acclaimed for the excellence of the cuisine.

Mrs. N. Kanis at the piano, Miss Prudence Lewis (violin), and Mr. D. J. Wolff (cello), demonstrated with admirable technique their understanding and appreciation of ensemble music.

Mr. Wolff will be glad to receive special requests for these Saturday programmes, and will appreciate it if those interested will address their requests to him, care of the Gloucester Trio, Hotel Gloucester.

ALL YIELD to the QUICK ACTION of

'ASPRO'

THOUSANDS have testified to the efficacy of 'ASPRO,' and thousands more have proved by use that 'ASPRO' definitely soothes away the excruciating pains of Lumbago, Sciatica, Neuralgia, Headaches, etc. It quickly stops the pain. There is no waiting or delay; furthermore, 'ASPRO' is safe, and it does not harm the heart, digestion, or stomach. It can be taken by anyone, anywhere, at any time, and the reason why 'ASPRO' has such a large number of uses in every home is because, after ingestion in the system, it is an internal antiseptic—an anti-pyretic or fever reducer—an anti-periodic—a powerful germicide, and a definite solvent of Uric Acid.

Let your slogan be:—
GET 'ASPRO' AND GET RID OF PAIN.

Wonderful for Lumbago and Rheumatism

In Hay Road, Dear Sirs, Kewick, N. Aust. My father has suffered for a number of years with LUMBAGO and RHEUMATISM in a severe state, being in bed 8 or 9 weeks at a time each year. Some time ago he tried 'ASPRO' Tablets for relief, and they acted wonderfully. During the last 11 years he has taken very many Tablets, but he enjoys better health, and does not get a return of severe pains nor any ill-effects from taking your 'ASPRO'.

He continues to take 'ASPRO' Tablets daily and would recommend anyone suffering from LUMBAGO or RHEUMATISM to try 'ASPRO' Tablets as they give such splendid relief.

Yours sincerely,
W. J. WOLSEY.

Dear Sirs, For nearly 12 months I have been suffering with Sciatica, and could hardly walk with the pain in both legs. I was recommended to take 'ASPRO,' which I did, night and morning, with the result that in a fortnight the pain had practically left me, and I was able to walk about in perfect ease. HONG KONG, SUNDAY, JUNE 2, 1935.

The King's Birthday

IT is inevitable that in this Jubilee Year the celebration of the King's Birthday, at any rate in Hong Kong, should come with something of an anticlimax. Beyond a little encouragement from the Committee, the Chinese processions which livened the streets of Hong Kong during the Jubilee had nothing of the official stamp about them; and their effect was all the greater for that. To-morrow the usual military parade, the reception, the list of honours, will all be according to precedent. There is room both for the extemporised and the regulated element in life, and the difference is more of manner than spirit.

In the meantime His Majesty has once more been showing the consistency of thoughtful goodwill which has so endeared him to his subjects. Of all the people in prominent positions no one has a better chance of knowing exactly where the social shoe pinches, for he not only has the personal contacts with all classes, but the round of ceremonial occasions in which he takes part shows him which of the philanthropic and social institutions are meeting a popular want. It was by his wish that money was very sparingly spent on the Jubilee; but he let it be widely known that those who were ready to spend money of their own would give him pleasure by sending it to be added to an endowment fund to be used for the young people — of course of both sexes — at the discretion of a committee which would advise him. The fund is not to be used to start any new organisation. There are already many. Their difficulty is that their very success leads to a shortage of funds; and it will often happen that even an old established and vigorous cause will have temporary overdrafts that take up too much energy and divert thought from the work. We can congratulate ourselves that we have here a similar memorial in the "Sir William Peel Fund," and there are no doubt dozens, perhaps hundreds, of similar funds scattered about the world. Money could not be better invested.

This is the first year in which the "war babies" begin to come of age, and acquire the responsibility of a vote and full citizenship. Many sweeping generalisations have been made about the war babies. We have been told that the social disturbance and anxiety left a legacy of nervous excitability; that lack of proper nourishment stunted growth; that lack of parental discipline meant less than normal self-control and an absence of knowledge of tradition and principle. Nobody has the requisite knowledge to estimate how much truth there may be in all this. Something like it has been said of every generation. But it is quite certain that never has the State accepted so much responsibility, granted money so generously, and made such rapid progress in building new and more healthy schools. The additional votes for education alone have exceeded a hundred and seventy million pounds, which can only look a small amount if it is compared with war-time expenditure. The extra amount spent on health, medical treatment, and so on, would double that total. It was all necessary, and an obligation; but it also revealed how much more had to be done. Seaside Camps have been a particular care of the Royal Family; the Duke of York has never failed to take personal charge of a large camp on the South Coast. If it cannot be said that the classless fellowship of the trenches was captured for a permanence, at any rate there was an ideal of comradeship implanted that will bear good seed in the years to come.

The tragedy of the war babies really was that the years when they reached the age of apprenticeship and technical or specialised training coincided with this horrible depression when there were not enough openings to take the output of the schools. That unemployment should overtake men who begin to feel a bit stiff in the joints is bad enough; but that boys should leave school and fail to get any opening for their energy in the plastic later teens is the supreme problem and disaster of the current day. The provision of training and some sort of useful occupation even when remunerative work is unobtainable, is one of the causes that will have first call on the new funds.

NO character in fiction has been more frequently plagiarised than Robert Louis Stevenson's Prince Florizel, a dream which comes very naturally to the ordinary man who in bound to stay in one place to earn his living, of a man who has no limitations of money or occupation, and who can bring a powerful intellect and wide knowledge to the task of enjoying his privileges to the full. In real life perhaps nobody comes so near to filling the part as the Aga Khan, who not only owns the favourite for the Derby, but two other horses that might easily make a new record by running into the other two places.

From time to time he has come into the news as acting on behalf of the Indian Muslims, of whom he is he recognised head, but what exactly are his allotted functions it would not be easy to say. He must however have access to a great deal of information not accessible to any other man who lives in Europe. He must be a shrewd manager of his estate, for he has never been known to lack whatever financial backing he required. Yet he is not an Indian "Prince" in the ordinary sense of the word, for he has no territory under his rule, that does not of course mean that he not the owner of land in a private capacity. While the new Constitution has been under discussion he has been applied to be appointed or recognised as a territorial Prince, but the Indian Office considered that there were reasons of high policy which made that inadvisable, and for once he had to endure a disappointment.

THE DERBY

CONSIDERING the amount of comment by "turf prophets," beginning with summaries of the two-year-old running in the year before, and that all the horses have shown what they could do in some public appearance, it is natural that sportsmen all over the world should think that they know enough about the runners in this race to risk their money with the same confidence as if they were on the spot; but that idea ignores several conditions of which the weather and its effect on the course is perhaps the most important. There was the famous race which was won by Sir Henry Chaplin's Hermit in a snowstorm. For a small landowner he must have taken a big risk to back an outsider for enough to win the hundred thousand pounds that set him free to follow the career he most desired, of the political leader of the farmers, for the rest of his life. At any rate he never gave the "bookies" the chance of getting it back.

THE SWEEPS

FOR the overseas man no such objection arises in the case of the sweepstake, which gives him as great or as little a chance as anybody else. In a busy town it is not easy to realise the vast pyramids of daydreams built on

World State Fellowship
FoundedMr. Russell Woodruff Forms
New SocietyLIVELY DISCUSSION AT THE INAUGURAL MEETING

THE foundation of a World State Fellowship, designed to form the nucleus of a universal brotherhood of humanity without distinction of race, creed, sex or colour, was decided upon by a meeting held in the Jacobean Room of the Hong Kong Hotel yesterday afternoon. The person mainly responsible for the formation of this society is Mr. Russell Sydney Woodruff, who has prepared a draft constitution which is to be considered by an ad hoc committee of those present at the meeting and submitted for confirmation to a general meeting which will be called later.

There were some fifteen or twenty people present at the meeting, which was presided over by Mr. George She. The Chairman briefly introduced the speaker of the evening, Mr. Woodruff, saying that anything he had to say would be sure to be thought-provoking and suggestive. In the Chairman's opinion the meeting should be an informal gathering and mainly exploratory.

Aims Of Organisation
After the preamble to the constitution and the objects of the proposed society had been read, Mr. Woodruff spoke at some length on the ideas which had led him to consider the foundation of such a society. He mentioned incidentally that it was proposed to be non-profit making, though some remuneration might be offered to officers and others doing work for the society. Another point the speaker mentioned was that it was proposed to amalgamate with the presently existing West and East Fellowship and the Christian and Non-Christian Association, both of which have been in existence for a year, these two societies to be subsidiary to the proposed World State Fellowship. The Fellowship was intended to serve for the elevation of mankind, altruistic and free from partisan entanglement.

Mr. Woodruff claimed that he had analysed the causes of war, which might be divided into three classes: immediate, intermediate, and fundamental. Among the immediate causes there were accidental and manufactured incidents; among the intermediate causes were such things as false notions or concepts, merchants of death stimulating the Governments to provide armaments, and the regarding of the might represented by military strength as right; while among the fundamental reasons were three classes of causes: materialistic, cultural and psychological. In the course of his long and interesting discourse Mr. Woodruff made a close examination of all these causes, with the many sub-divisions into which they could be still further divided.

Causes Of War
The two words "patriotism" and "nationalism" could, in the speaker's opinion, be included under all three classes of the causes of war; and he refuted the idea he once saw expressed on a League of Nations Union poster, that "Arma-

THE HON. MR. N. L. SMITH, S. C. A.

This is the forty-fourth of the exclusive series of sketches of leading Colony residents by Mr. A. S. Konyea, the talented Hungarian artist.

THE Hon. Mr. Norman Lockhart Smith, Secretary for Chinese Affairs, who is the third son of the late Mr. Crawford Smith, M.P. for Newcastle-on-Tyne, was born in 1887 in County Durham.

Educated at Sedburgh, where he became head of the school, he won the Hastings Exhibition at Queen's College, Oxford, where he took his B.A. degree in 1910, in the same year passing into the Colonial Civil Service, and being assigned to Hong Kong, where he arrived on New Year's Day 1911.

The next 10 years were spent in the usual routine posts which fall to the lot of the Colonial Cadet, varied by two outside events. In 1914 Mr. Smith married the only daughter of Bishop Banister, formerly Archdeacon of Hong Kong, and in 1916 he joined the Northumberland Fusiliers, being subsequently transferred, on account of his knowledge of Cantonese, to a Chinese Labour Battalion, with which he remained until the end of the War. Demobilised in 1919 he returned to the Far East and was in 1921 appointed as head of the Imports and Exports Department. Subsequent appointments were: 1923, District Officer (South); 1924, Head of the Sanitary Department; 1928, Post Master General; 1931, Principal Assistant Colonial Secretary; 1933, Director of Education; and 1934, Secretary for Chinese Affairs. Mr. Smith is ex officio a Member of both the Executive and Legislative Councils.

HONG KONG AND THE NEW TERRITORIES. — No. 158.

Mountain Frogs
SPECIMENS of two interesting species of frogs have been brought to me recently. In England there is only one native frog, Rana temporaria, the common toad Bufo vulgaris and the more local natterjack Bufo calamita. In Hong Kong there are at least 15 species of frogs and toads, and they do not all belong to the genera Rana and Bufo. We have seven Rana and one Bufo species.

One of these two frogs is only found near mountain torrents and is often called in consequence a cascade frog. It is strikingly marked bright green above, the sides and legs being brown and yellow, the lower parts white. It is a Rana and owing to its grass green colour has been named R. graminea; Green Cascade Frog is a suitable trivial name. The length of the body is about 3½ inches.

The second frog, Rana guentheri, is also a beautiful species, first described from specimens found at Amoy, where I have also found it. In shape and size it very similar to the green cascade frog, but it lives in quieter water not near mountain torrents. In colour it is often, though not always, a uniform rich mahogany red above, with sides beautifully marbled black and yellow. A suitable name is the Red and Black Frog. This species is a very good jumper and will not stay long to be examined once it gets alarmed.

A third species of amphibian, not a land frog but a tree frog with a very long name, Polypedates leucomystax megacephalus, best known as the Brown Tree-Frog, may be seen at this time of the year. Several specimens have been collected for me recently; all were sandy brown in colour, but this species can change its colour to a considerable extent. I remember that on one occasion a number of these tree-frogs escaped in my laboratory and completely disappeared. A few days later one materialised in a dramatic manner. In the midst of a lecture a frog arrived on a student's bench much to his surprise. It must have been sitting on the wall and had altered in colour to approximate to that of the dirty colour wash and hence had not been seen.

The female lays her eggs in the air, by this I mean not in the water as do most frogs, but attached to a branch above water. The egg mass is enclosed in a large blob of creamy white or brown froth and is very conspicuous. When the tadpoles hatch they wriggle through the froth and take a high dive into the water below. Quite a novel method of commencing an active existence! A few days ago I saw such an egg mass suspended over a tank of water in the deer enclosure in the Botanic Gardens.

On a recent trip to Tsing Yi (Green Coat) Island, named Chong Hui on the maps for some reason not known to me, we disturbed a bittern feeding in a paddy field. It flew up within a few yards of me and so it was possible to identify it as the Chinese Little Bittern, Ixobrychus sinensis, a common summer visitor to China. The bird was a female, in colour golden chestnut, chestnut-buff and buff. In shape it resembles an egret but is smaller than any of our local species.

Christian Virtue Of Tenderness

"Be Ye Kind To One Another"

What The Pharisee Paul Learned From Christ

(By The Rev. J. N. Lewis Bryan)

WHEN the Apostle Paul first appears upon the scene, one would not be very far wrong in describing him as a pretty hard-hearted specimen of humanity. He was a Pharisee, cruel and intolerant, delighting in sacrifice and not mercy. He had held the clothes of the murderers of Stephen, zealously interested in that ghastly spectacle, and had then proceeded to make havoc of the Church. Yet a few years later, when he was writing to the Christians at Ephesus, we come across the words, "Be ye kind one to another, tender-hearted."

He was certainly not a man who was constitutionally tender, and no softening of the years alone could have wrought that tremendous change in his composition. The truth of the matter was that he had been touched by the power of Christ.

Tenderness, Not Weakness

Let us think for a few moments about this grace of tender-heartedness. To begin with, it must not be mixed up with weakness. There is a tenderness—and it is very common—which is the antithesis of strength. There is no justice in it, no morality, no love of the good, no hatred of the bad. It is the overflowing of an easy nature that often works irreparable wrong, just because it has not strength enough to take a firm stand for what is right.

Not of this sort was the tender-heartedness of Paul. It knew the cleavage between light and darkness. It knew that it may be cruel to be kind, and that sometimes it may be kindest to seem cruel. But it also knew how lonely people are, how sad the heart may be for all the laughter; how heavily the burden may weigh, although borne with a brave and cheerful spirit.

"Be ye kind one to another, tender-hearted." You can never tell what another soul is bearing. Those whom you are inclined, perhaps, to envy—if you knew all, you might not envy. And it is just this instinct for the deep, this surmise of what is hidden in the shadow, that gives to tender-heartedness its power and its place in Christian brotherhood.

The World's Hardening

There are several causes working in the world which make it a hard thing to keep a tender heart. One of the commonest of all is custom. Do you remember, in the parable of the sower, what happened to the seed that fell by the wayside? It fell upon the pathway that led across the field, and the birds of the air came and picked it up. It was not stony or thorny ground; it was good ground, but beaten hard by the passing of innumerable feet, until at last the surface had become impenetrable.

ECONOMIC STATUS OF AMERICA GOVERNMENT CONTROL NOW LACKING

ROOSEVELT DEFINES ISSUE

Washington, Yesterday.

President Roosevelt said yesterday that the Supreme Court National Recovery Administration decision drew the flat issue of taking away from the Federal Government all control over national economic and social conditions. He also said that the implications of the decision meant the end of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, the Securities Exchange Commission and the Federal Alcohol Commission.

Describing the ruling as perhaps the most important in the history of the nation, the President said that it was up to the people to decide now whether there shall be 48 different State attempts to regulate the economic and social life, or whether this shall be the function of the Federal Government.

Grave was the President's voice as he sat behind the desk and conferred for over an hour and a half with representatives of the Press. The question will have to be settled by the vote of the people, not necessarily this summer, autumn or winter, but probably within the next four or five years. He is ready to act next week to attempt to counter the results of the decision, but the nature of his plans is withheld.

Hong Kong Personalities

Mr. Smith's principal recreation is golf. A member of the Royal Hong Kong Golf Club, he has twice—in 1926 and 1934—been Captain of the Club and has been a member of the Interport golf team on five or six occasions, from 1924 on. He is also Vice-President of the local branch of the English Association.

Wolfe C.M.G., Herr

The implications of the decision, the President said, removed any Federal jurisdiction over such major human activities as farming, manufacturing, mining and construction.

BACK TO BUGGY DAYS

That President Roosevelt had been serious in his reflection on its historic significance was manifest. In his view the Supreme Court interpretation of the Interstate Commerce clause was put into the Constitution.

He hoped that the spirit of the codes would be maintained voluntarily, and when voicing the opinion that the question will eventually have to be settled by the vote of the people President Roosevelt emphasized that he does not consider it a "partisan issue."

RENEWAL APPLICATIONS

Referring to the batch of telegrams and letters on his desk, most of which are asking for the restoration of the N.R.A. in some form, President Roosevelt said that he did not believe that the people fully appreciated the vast implications of the decision, or such suggestions for the renewal of the N.R.A. would not have been made.

AN INVIDIOUS POSITION

He said that the United States was now the only nation in the world without authority to exercise control over the economic and social conditions of the people, but he thought the decision was in some ways the best thing that had happened, because it clarified the issue, which in several ways he felt was the biggest ever before the country in a time of peace.

President Roosevelt also said that the Supreme Court opinion, if it blocked any Federal control of agricultural production, might result in 36 cents wheat and 5 cents cotton, under present world conditions.—Reuter.

After years of Research SCIENCE FINDS WAY TO RID OIL OF "SLUM"

WHAT IS "SLUM"?

"Slum" is a combination of sludge and gum and tar. It is present in every drop of crude oil taken from the earth. And, UNTIL NOW, no refining process has ever been able to remove it completely from the motor oil that you buy for your car.

How amazing Process "washes" away Impurities and produces a New Oil that actually keeps Engines clean.

MOTOR oils have always contained "Slum." And despite every effort, no oil refiner has ever been able to remove it completely . . . UNTIL NOW.

It is "slum" that causes valves to jam and rings to stick. "Slum" is responsible for high engine heat, excessive carbon and most engine failures.

But now, for the first time in your life, you can buy oil free from "slum." Mobiloil chemists and engineers have done what was always thought impossible.

To-day, Mobiloil is refined in an utterly new way. It is called the Clearosol Process. Powerful solvents literally "dissolve" the tarry substances that ordinary filters could never touch.

What happens to the oil is amazing. It is cleaner. It is purer . . . practically 100% pure lubricant. As a result it lasts as much as 25% longer than other oils. You need fewer refills. You save money.

And it actually keeps your engine clean. Test motors have been run continually for hundreds of hours — then taken down. They show no sign of wear, no traces of the usual sludge.

It resists heat better. So Mobiloil now offers you a greater margin of safety than ever. Have your crankcase cleaned out to-day. Refill with the new Mobiloil and carefully note the difference. THERE IS NO INCREASE IN PRICE.

Only Mobiloil is free from "SLUM"

100 EUROPEANS SAID KILLED AND 200 INJURED IN EARTHQUAKE

POSSIBILITIES OF EUROPEAN AIR AGREEMENT

Tentative Proposals From Germany

SIR JOHN SIMON REPORTS PROGRESS

London, Yesterday. Much of yesterday's debate on National Defence raised in the House of Commons by the Liberal party was concerned with the possibilities of negotiating a Western Air Pact and Sir John Simon, the Foreign Secretary, who was the principal Government speaker, stated that progress was being made with this project.

Proposals that he was glad to have, he said, had now been received in a preliminary and tentative form from the German Government and the French and Italian Governments had also forwarded their ideas on the subject.

The British Government believed that the proposed air pact would necessitate an agreement regarding air strength and also an understanding as to levels of air strength. An effort should also be made in the pact to arrive at some agreement for the outlawry of indiscriminate bombing.

It was ardently to be hoped that these would result in a speedily agreed limitation of air strength and the British Government would do their utmost to attain such a result.

Programme Stands

Meanwhile the British Government would not be justified in suspending the recently announced measures for increasing air defences, but no one could suggest that these measures were in any way inimical to peace or would do the smallest injury to the negotiation of an air agreement. On the contrary, he maintained that the measures taken would add to the prospects of reaching such an agreement.

Sir John Simon, who had recalled the original suggestion for a Western Air Pact made in the Anglo-French communiqué of February 3, mentioned that he had communicated with the French Foreign Minister and with M. Laval's authority he could state that the air pact was engaging the earnest attention of all the statesmen of the countries concerned.

Improved Atmosphere

He hoped they would soon find themselves in a situation when the suggestions made could be usefully exchanged by the most appropriate method. A great step would then have been taken if the subject could be pursued to the point of negotiation without prejudice as to whether or not a more general settlement would be needed.

Sir John's statement received general approval from the speakers who followed and Mr. Anthony Eden, in winding up the debate, said it was the intention of the British Government to make the most of the contributions in Herr Hitler's speech and to see whether, building on that basis, they could, with others who shared the same anxieties and determination, eventually effect a sadly needed improvement in European affairs.

World State Fellowship Founded

ments caused the war." Arma-ready in existence than by dissipation but one of the causes of war; and Mr. Woodruff claimed that nobody had previously been able to classify these causes as he had done.

His idea was that June 1 might be a universal peace day, rather than November 11, which was considered to be more or less so by numbers of people. There were obvious disabilities about the choice of Armistice Day for this purpose, in the point that those defeated in the last war might consider it rather as a day of commemoration of the allied victory than as a universal Peace Day.

Horrors Of Next War

Mr. Woodruff went on to forecast the dreadful possibilities of the next war, with all its horrors of unexpected attacks from the sky on sleeping cities, the dropping of poison and gas bombs on sleeping citizens, and so on. He discussed the possibilities if the League should be able in fact not only to limit armaments but actually to eradicate them altogether. Even in that case, the speaker thought, men would still fight, with fists and sticks if they had nothing else.

What was required was to eradicate the fundamental causes of war before it would be possible to eradicate war itself; and this was what his proposed Fellowship sought to do. The answer to the question: "Is permanent peace possible?" was: "Only by a World State can we get rid of the conflicts of culture and interests which cause war, and to do so one must bring about the federation of the world foreseen by H. G. Wells, and foretold in Tennyson's words: 'The Parliament of man; the federation of the world.'"

After Mr. Woodruff's speech had been greeted with applause, the Chairman examined some of the legal aspects of the present meeting, with special regard to the proposed amalgamation with the existing West and East Fellowship and the Christian and non-Christian Association. He was of the opinion that before such an amalgamation could take place the constituent parts must signify their desire to amalgamate, and this he conveyed in special meetings called for the purpose.

The general discussion on the proposed Fellowship was made most interesting by a number of people present.

"World Federation"

Mr. V. S. Canaga Singham pointed out that there was already in existence a "World Federation," started originally in Chicago, India and London and affiliated to the League of Nations Union in London, with aims and objects very similar to those outlined by Mr. Woodruff in discussing his proposed society.

The Chairman's opinion was that they would be doing more good by

DUTCH BANK DISCOUNT RATE RAISED 1 PER CENT.

Sequel To Franc Crisis And Loss Of Gold

GOVERNMENT BONDS STEADY

Amsterdam, Yesterday.

The raising of the Netherlands Bank discount rate from 4 to 5 per cent. was the sequel to the Bank again losing gold to America and the crisis in the franc, which created uneasiness with regard to the position of the Dutch currency.

Monetary circles here do not believe that the guilder can remain at its present gold parity if the franc depreciates, but the steadiness of Dutch Government bonds appears to indicate that the public is not much perturbed.

The fears that Holland may have to leave the gold standard were soon decreased by the firmness of French Government securities.—Reuter.

CONSULAR OFFICER TO VISIT CANTON

Nanking To Control South-West?

JAPANESE PRESS REPORTS

[From Our Own Correspondent]

Canton, Yesterday.

Mr. Tatsuo Kawai, Japanese Consul-General in Canton, and Mr. M. Matsumoto, Councillor of the Tokyo Foreign Office, are expected to arrive here to-day by air from Nanking. General Pao Hsueh-shan, second-in-command of the Fourth Kwangsi Army, has chartered a Stinson monoplane to convey the two Japanese to Canton.

It is believed in well-placed circles here that the Foreign Office representative went to Kwangsi on some important mission, apart from the object of sight-seeing. Mr. Matsumoto's stay in Canton was so brief that he did not call on officials here on his last visit, but hopes to meet them to-day.

Japanese press reports have been hinting that the Nanking authorities are planning to extend their control over the South-west, which is stated to be preparing for such an eventuality.

Significance is attached to the report from Tokyo stating that the Japanese General Staff believe that General Chiang Kai-shek will resume anti-Japanese activities when he has suppressed the Reds and unified the country.

UNCLAIMED TELEGRAMS

The following unclaimed radio telegrams are lying at the Government Radio Office:—Marychiu, (from Batavia); Chibancorp, (from Taihoku); Tungon, (from Cholon); Ganechochlang, 50, Morrison Hill Road, third floor, (from Shanghai).

TREASURY BILLS ISSUE

London, yesterday.—The total amount applied for in tenders for £40,000,000 Treasury bills was £52,950,000. The maximum amount was allotted in bills at 3 months, and the average rate per cent was 10/5.70d as compared with 10/5.70d a week ago.—British Wireless Service.

QUETTA POLICE FORCE ALMOST ANNIHILATED

HEAVY R.A.F. LOSSES REPORTED

BLAZING BAZAAR AND SEVERE STORM ADD TO PERILS

Karachi, Yesterday.

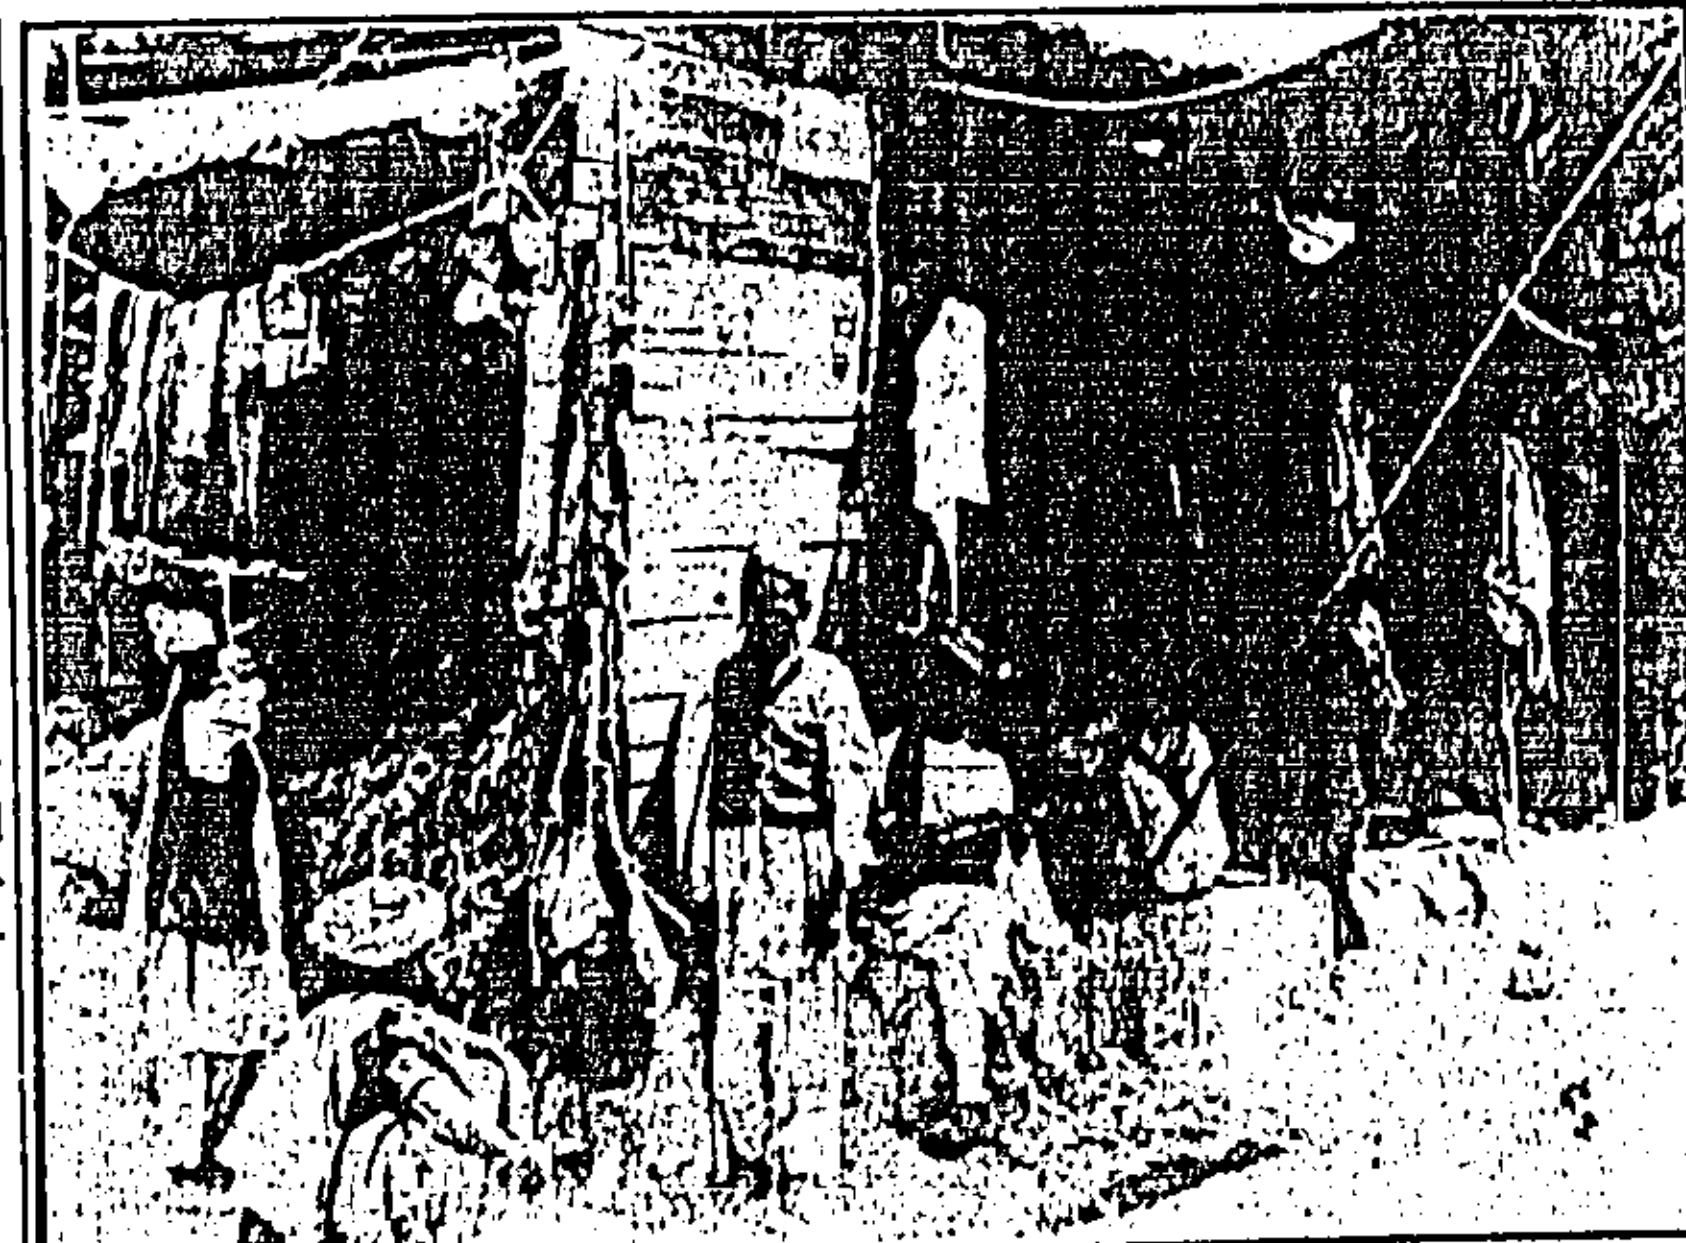

In addition to 44 R.A.F. airmen killed in the earthquake, between 20 and 30 are missing. So far 50 injured Europeans and 153 Indians have been extricated from the ruins in Quetta and admitted to hospital.

It is believed that Babu Mottimohallas, which is one of the thickly populated parts of Quetta, has been razed to the ground. It is reported, but not confirmed, that the main bazaar of Quetta is on fire and that a severe storm is blowing. It is also reported that Chaman, 60 miles to the north of Quetta, where there is an important frontier outpost, has been wiped out.

Two R.A.F. planes are expected to take off to-morrow morning to assist in the relief work. Other local planes may be requisitioned and a number of private agencies are arranging relief parties.—Reuter.

A LATER MESSAGE FROM QUETTA STATES THAT THE TOTAL EUROPEAN CASUALTIES AMOUNT TO ABOUT 100 KILLED AND 200 INJURED. THE POLICE WERE ALMOST ANNIHILATED, AND THE AIR FORCE LOSSES WERE HEAVY. THE CITY ITSELF WAS COMPLETELY RAZED TO THE GROUND. THE INDIAN CASUALTIES HAVE NOT YET BEEN ESTIMATED, BUT IT IS FEARED THAT THEY ARE EXTREMELY HEAVY.—REUTER.

London, Yesterday. A disastrous earthquake, involving, it is feared, a death roll of many thousands occurred in British Baluchistan, India, early yesterday morning. It is impossible as yet to estimate even with approximate accuracy the total number of casualties among the native population, but there can be little doubt that in the congested native city of Quetta, the capital of Baluchistan, and in other towns the total will be appallingly heavy.

20,000 CASUALTIES
It is known, however, that the death roll includes one officer and 43 Royal Air Force personnel, two British officials and their families, and practically the whole police force of Quetta and many subordinate civil and railway officers. Between 20 to 30 other airmen are also missing. Few details are as yet available owing to the destruction of telegraph lines, but wireless reports received state that in Quetta, which has a population of 34,000 and is the seat of administration as well as an important military centre, the native houses crashed like packs of cards in the violence of the shock, burying their occupants in the debris.

MILITARY AREA ESCAPES
The earthquake was felt with men of the British and Indian Regiments have been working feverishly to convey succour, and to establish some semblance of order among the thousands of distracted refugees, and have succeeded in providing temporary accommodation for many of the destitute in camps hurriedly erected on the race-course and in the grounds of the Residency.

TOWN DESTROYED
It is also reported that the town of Mastung, 40 miles to the south of Quetta, was completely destroyed and that four-fifths of its population have been killed, the same fate overtaking neighbouring villages. Apart from the towns Baluchistan is sparsely populated and no information is yet available as to the damage in the outlying districts.

Sir Norman Carter has broadcast a wireless appeal to all provincial headquarters for the urgent despatch of medical relief, and immediately the news of the disaster was received doctors and nurses were despatched to the scene by the quickest available routes.—British Wireless Service.

YUH SUEH-CHUNG IN PEIPING

RETICENT WHEN INTERVIEWED

Peiping, Yesterday.

Mr. Yuh Sueh-chung has arrived and has interviewed Mr. Hoy Ing-ching.

Pressmen afterwards found him most reticent and asked if he intended to resign. He did not reply and also declined to explain the hasty removal of the provincial capital from Tientsin.

Mr. Yu expects to remain here three days before proceeding to Paoting.—Reuter.

20,000 CASUALTIES

Lahore, Yesterday.

From the data available, experts place the total casualties at Quetta at 20,000.—Reuter.

THE PASSING HOUR

the hope of winning one of the big prizes that have beguiled weary hours for men marooned in silent deserts or echoing mountains. A very favourite method of wasting time during the first period of the novelty of the big sweep was to get a copy "Country Life" and choose from the pages of photographs of desirable residences for sale which would be the best choice. Given half a dozen men of various tastes quite a hot argument could be started. From such records of the subsequent careers of the lucky winners it does not seem that most of them have had the same wisdom in wealth that they had in the cold blood of mere anticipation, but perhaps the sensible ones are those that have kept out of the news. I have sometimes wondered about the subsequent career of the London tycoon who confessed that she had gone to a cinema, and that "When I saw my number thrown on the screen I got such a shock that I went right out and crossed the street to a Lyons shop and had a cup of tea."

TIPS

NO race is a better test of the value of the tips given by "our sporting editor" for the publicity gives an unrivalled opportunity of making or increasing a reputation. The general result does not encourage anything like a theory of infallibility. As far as the Derby is concerned so much of the betting is done on newspaper information that the long chances taken by optimistic owners have little or no effect on the odds. The favourite wins rather less than half the races, and sometimes at such modest a price that if one had backed all the favourites in the last 50 years there would only be a small balance on the right side. The hottest favourite was a very rapid but excitable horse called "Surefoot" 45 years ago who started at four to one on. During the previous night he killed and partly ate the cat, and suffered from a severe colic which caused hesitation about whether he should be started at all. He did actually start, but had to be eased up and walked in. I have reason to remember the event as I held the ticket for an unconsidered outsider "Sainfoin" who came in to win. Sweeps were not so big in those days, but a couple of hundred pounds fell like manna from Heaven.

Premier's Career

The new Premier was the first Socialist appointed President of the Chamber. Since 1920 he has held this third highest post in the French Republic, to which he has been elected eight times in succession. M. Bouisson has been a Deputy since 1909, when his home Department, Bouches du Rhone, sent him to the Chamber. Still very young, he joined the Independent Socialists, to whose Left-wing he belongs.

The new Cabinet is the 98th under the Republic and the ninth of the present legislative period. It will consist of 21 Ministers and one Under-Secretary of State. Three Ministers are Senators, 14 are members of the Chamber and three, Marshal Petain, General Maurin, and General Dainard, are not members of Parliament.

DEFENCE OF FRANCE

It is declared in political quarters that the new Premier intends to demand from the Chamber the same special and extraordinary powers as asked for by M. Flandin, and to adjourn the Chamber a few days later for the period of the Parliamentary recess. Above all it is added that the Government will regard the defence of the franc, with the help of the empowering Bill, as its chief task for the time being.

Favourable Reception Accorded

The new Bouisson Ministry was favourably received by public opinion, even the extreme Right-wing Parliamentary groups, although disagreeably impressed by the large number of Radical Socialists included in the Cabinet, announcing their intention to judge the latter by its deeds; a similar attitude developed in the Left-wing groups, except the Communists and Socialists, who are definitely hostile. Hence political circles believe that the Government will obtain handsome majorities in the Senate and Chamber next Tuesday. Some circles credit M. Bouisson with the intention of excluding Parliament until the close of the present year from any active co-operation in the political life, so as to be able to have the necessary leisure for reforming the budget and reviving the national economy. A few unimportant measures will be submitted to the Chamber next week, after which Parliament will probably be prorogued until the end of October.—Trans-Ocean Service.

BRITISH AIR PACT STATEMENT

"TIMES" COMMENT
The Times, in an editorial, reproaches the Government with still attempting to realise the entire London Protocol at a single stroke, nearly four months having been spent in examining and discussing the various suggestions which—however useful they might be—are undoubtedly not so important from Britain's standpoint as the proposed air pact.

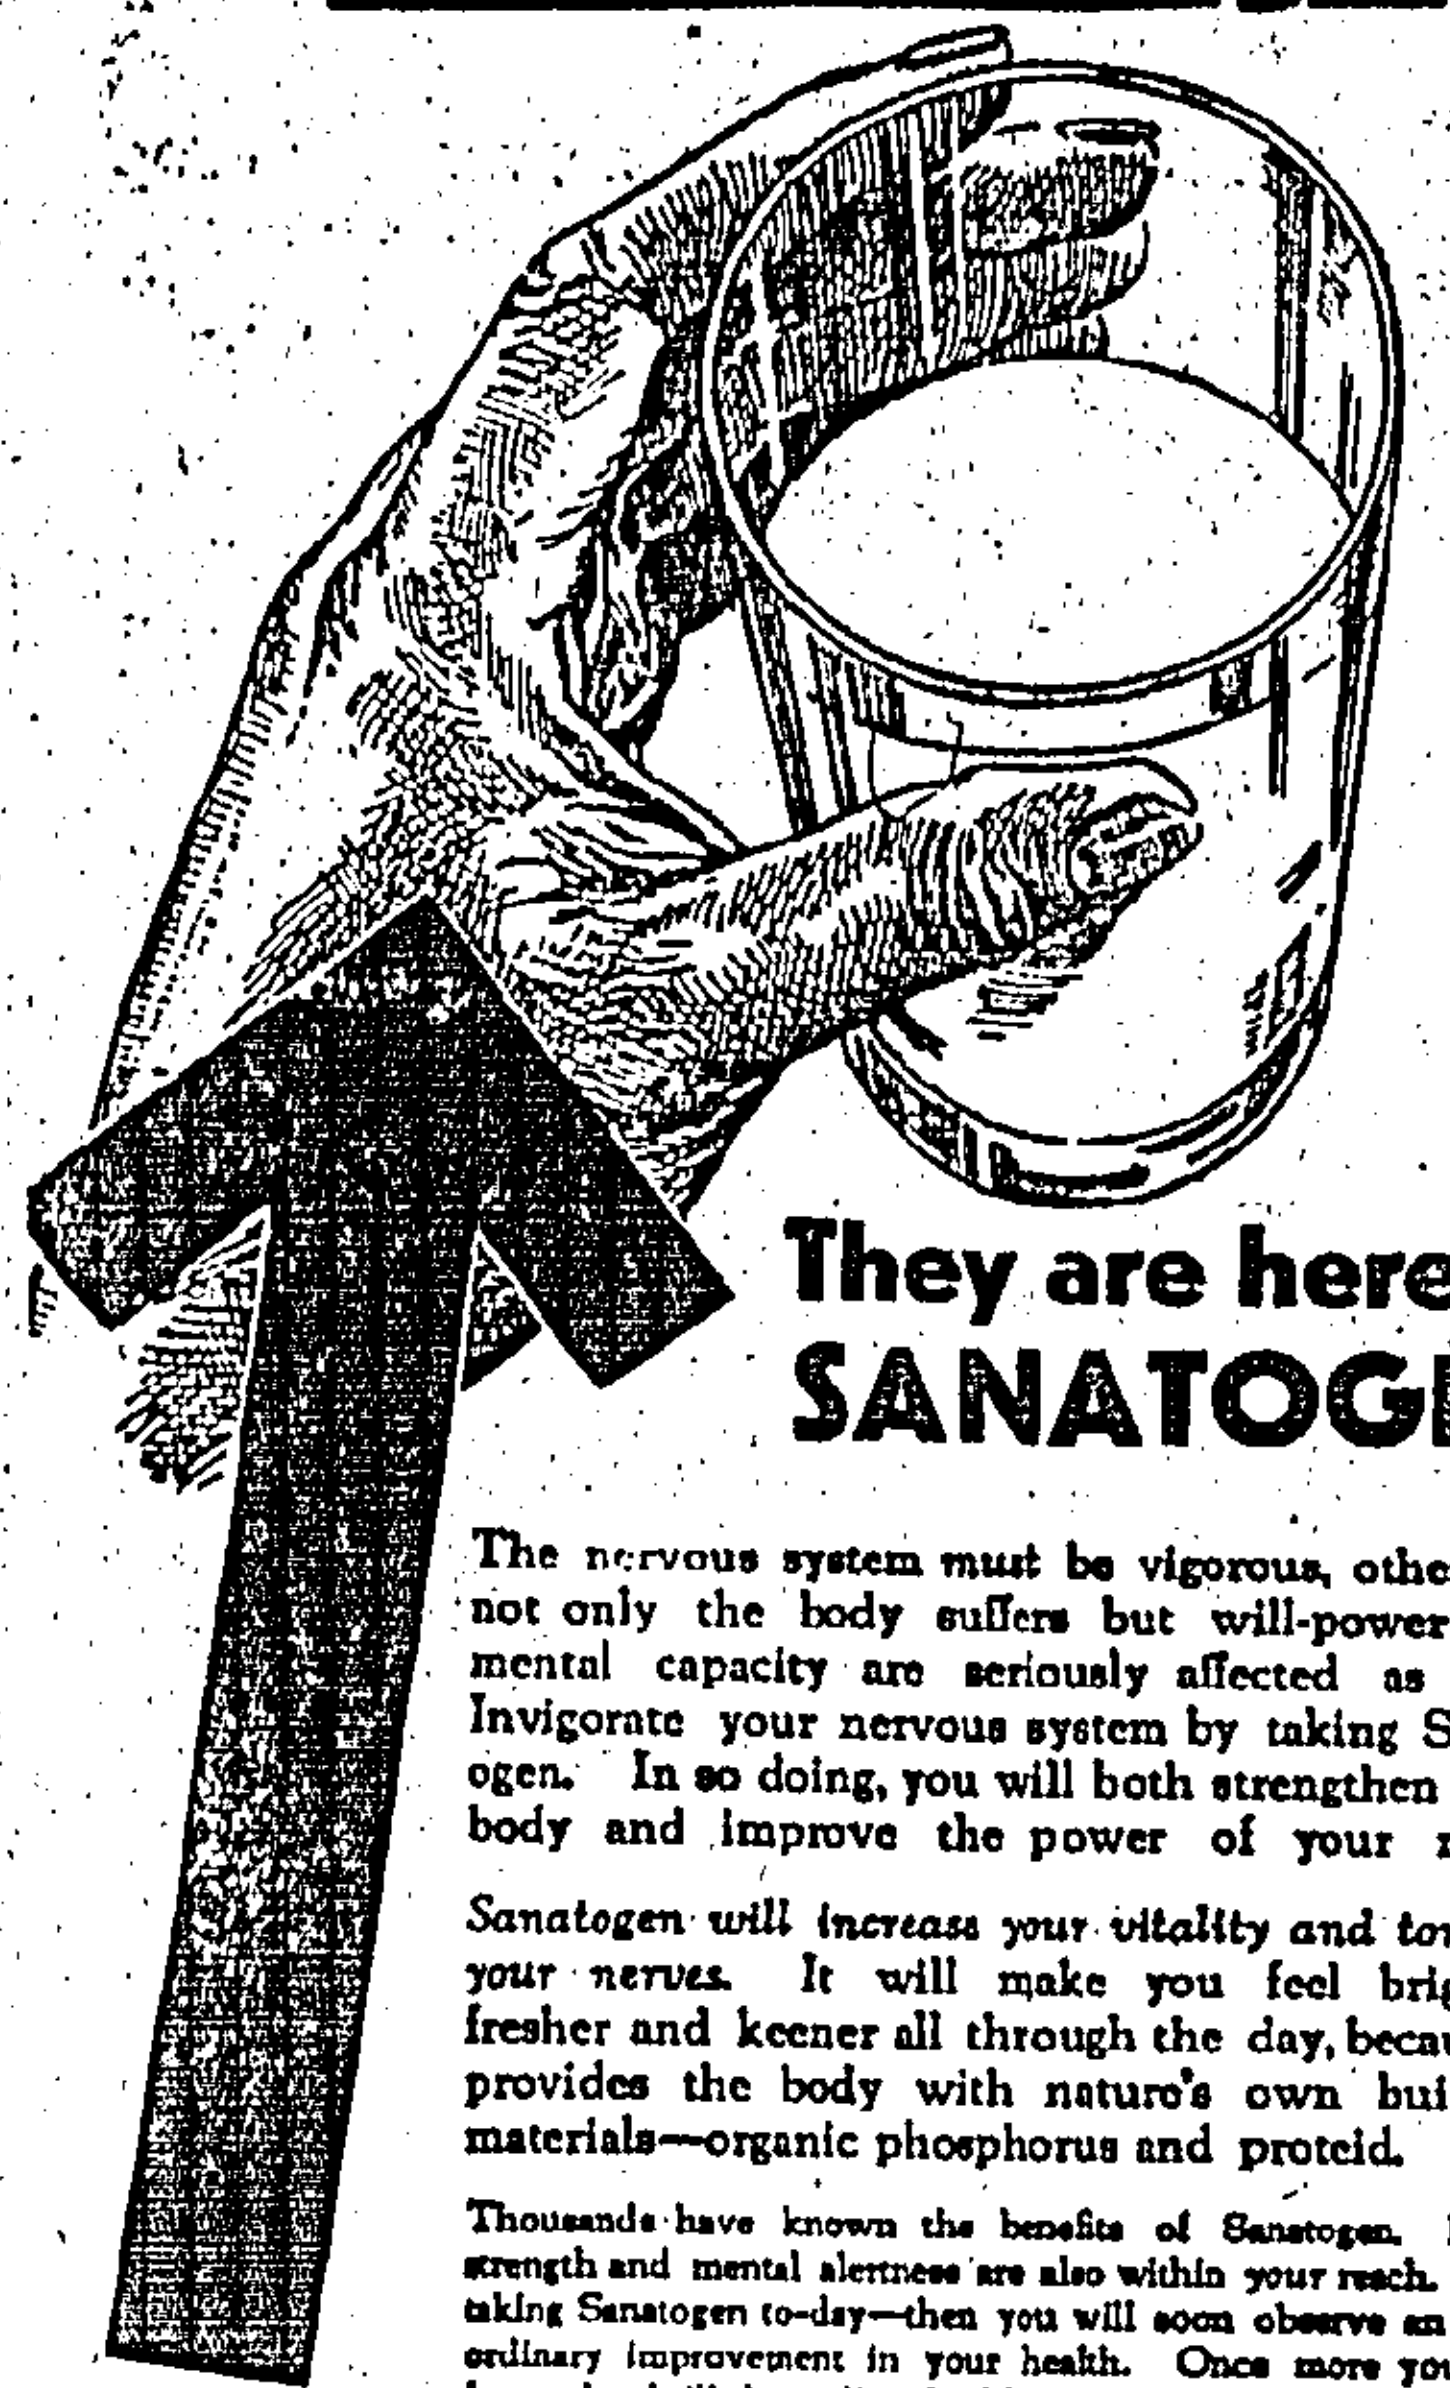

England, so the paper continues, should at the earliest possible moment sign, or at least initial, a convention which clearly lays down the principles that in the case of air attack all the other signatories should be obliged to take action in the air against the aggressor.

search of the firm's premises and seized a list of its customers. The police also visited the office of M. Lejone, the director of the newspaper Petit Journal, which has been strenuously advocating the devaluation of the franc. In a statement published by his public commemorative service will be held in the Chungshan Memorial Hall at 10 a.m. The meeting will be attended by all Party members, government officials, and representatives of the public bodies and schools. A note has been issued instructing them to gather there in time.

PICTURE-MAKING IN A CHILD'S LIFE NATURAL INSTINCT OF ALL PRIMITIVES FEELING FOR THE TIMES IN WHICH THEY LIVE

(By Phyllis Juby)

CHILDREN are so refreshingly unphilosophical in their expression; fresh and vigorous, as long as adult values are not imposed on them. Contrary to the general belief, an ability to create and to appreciate is given to all and should be encouraged from the earliest years. So much depends on the parents and teachers!

The psychologists have discovered for us that there are different stages of development common to all children and that their outlook and their expression are largely governed by the particular stage within which they fall. They have taught us, too, that children draw most readily, and enjoy their expression most, when they have vivid experiences which they wish to communicate.

Primitive Instinct

It is one of the most primitive instincts of every child to scribble—just as it was the instinct of primitive man to draw pictures on the walls of caves—and the scribbling soon begins to take form and meaning. There is in the child a readiness to recognise colour in its most brilliant and subtle forms and to express experiences freely in a concrete way. But while the child revels in the pure delight of colour his colour schemes are never overladen, but have a delicate quality of restraint. There is, too, a very real sense of space and proportion; though not the mechanically measured proportion of the old school of teaching. The child handles materials easily, and given enough space, his movements are as vigorous as his work. A freer choice of materials is a natural result of the recognition of the value of individual expression. Small sheets of paper of uniform size have been replaced by larger pieces in a variety of proportions. Kitchen paper, lining paper and sugar paper have all become popular and are cheaper than the usual cartridge paper. Instead of drawing with a lead pencil on plain white paper, the school-child now has a choice of powder colours, tempera, water-colour, oil colours which can be successfully used on paper, charcoal, chalks and crayons. He may even apply metallic paper or newspaper to his designs! Lino and woodcuts are popular too, for the boldness of the method is well suited to the child's simple statements.

Art Fitted To Its Age

The difficulty, though, in all our progressive movement toward allowing the child almost unlimited freedom, is to be able to aid and stimulate without developing any instinct of imitation. The growing child will not remain untouched by the new movements in the art world. But with his interest stimulated and his capacity for appreciation fostered, there must be freedom and even encouragement to work forward in his own way. The fact is that art can only be fitted to the age in which it belongs: this is the age of machinery and power. The older child's work must then be related to industry, to architecture, and to practically all the contemporary activities with which he is likely to come in contact in later life. Design should always be closely associated with interest and with things actually made and used by the child. Children are always eager for new experiences; eager to discover new modes of expression. A striking development of to-day is, indeed, the recognition given to the teaching of design. Design enters largely into every form of artistic expression and influences the life of every individual through the things he possesses, sees, uses or makes. The children themselves do have a feeling for the time in which they live; small boys love most to draw ships and aeroplanes, though girls still prefer houses and plants.

The work of Professor Cizek with children is well-known. His principal aim is to develop a child's creative power, and he believes that once it is awakened the whole outlook on life is influenced by it. And not only in Austria, but in almost all the countries of Europe, in England, and in America, the art classes in schools are now run on more or less the same progressive lines. Imagination is stimulated and then perfect freedom of expression is allowed. Aid in technique is given only when needed or actually asked for. Work becomes more disciplined as the child grows to a senior stage, but, even then, it is never contrary to his interests. The practice of these ideas has led to some astonishing results, and all we wait for now is a National Gallery of Children's Art.

Modern Ideas in East

The East is not uninfluenced by our modern ideas. Children in Japanese schools are encouraged to give free representations of their own ideas. The picture-scroll has been re-introduced and is found to be an excellent means of recording the child's succession of mind-pictures. The work of the children shows great confidence and vigour there as elsewhere; they not only draw from what they see with the eye, but they visualise and work fearlessly and sincerely from mental images. As a result, there is often an intense directness in their expression which many grown-ups

COLOSSEUM MATINEE

Although Flavius despised the soldiers he had to live with them. He learned to tolerate, eventually to copy, their coarseness. He found, when he knew them well, that their virtues and their charities as companions were roughly in inverse proportion to their manners. And soon he ceased to learn at all, for he was one of them.

After five years Flavius returned to Rome and was discharged. His first act as a civilian was to go to a tavern and take stock of himself.

He surveyed his hands, coarsened and grubby despite that morning's scrubbing. He felt his rough tanned face and the heavy thickness of his cheap clothes.

Then for the millionth time he saw the vision of that delicate beauty which was Cynthia, and he smiled grimly. He could not go to her now. He could not hold that daintiness in these thick ugly hands.

Beside, he told himself ironically, he was not—how had his father put it?—in a position to keep her. And at that thought he became a man again and not a lover; living was more important than loving then.

He had nothing to do and no qualifications. Only the dulled fragments of a classical education and five years' experience with the legions.

Well, that was something. He had made a good soldier; he was a good fighter. Let fighting be his profession again. So he drank his wine and went out into the street to find a trainer with a school of gladiators.

Flavius was an apt learner. In a seek in vain to acquire.

Hong Kong is not without a conscience. Attempts are made to apply these methods in the teaching of Chinese children. And given the opportunity to express himself freely, what is the Chinese child going to express? Obviously the things around him, seen through the eye of his traditions. Chinese life is colourful, decorative, ceremonial. The Chinese child therefore delights to picture the family life, the traditional weddings and funerals, the festivals of the Dragon Boats, of the shapely lanterns and kites. Indeed, the Chinese philosophy comes out in the drawing of these children. The way in which they represent things is essentially Chinese. Their way of treating perspective, for instance, is subordinate to the decorative effect desired. They will draw the furniture in a room from bird's eye view if the result is going to add to the decorative qualities of the picture. The unspoiled Chinese child will never try to be naturalistic.

Chinese Idealism

A class of such young children in a local school were asked to illustrate this line from Hsiawatha—their English set-work book:

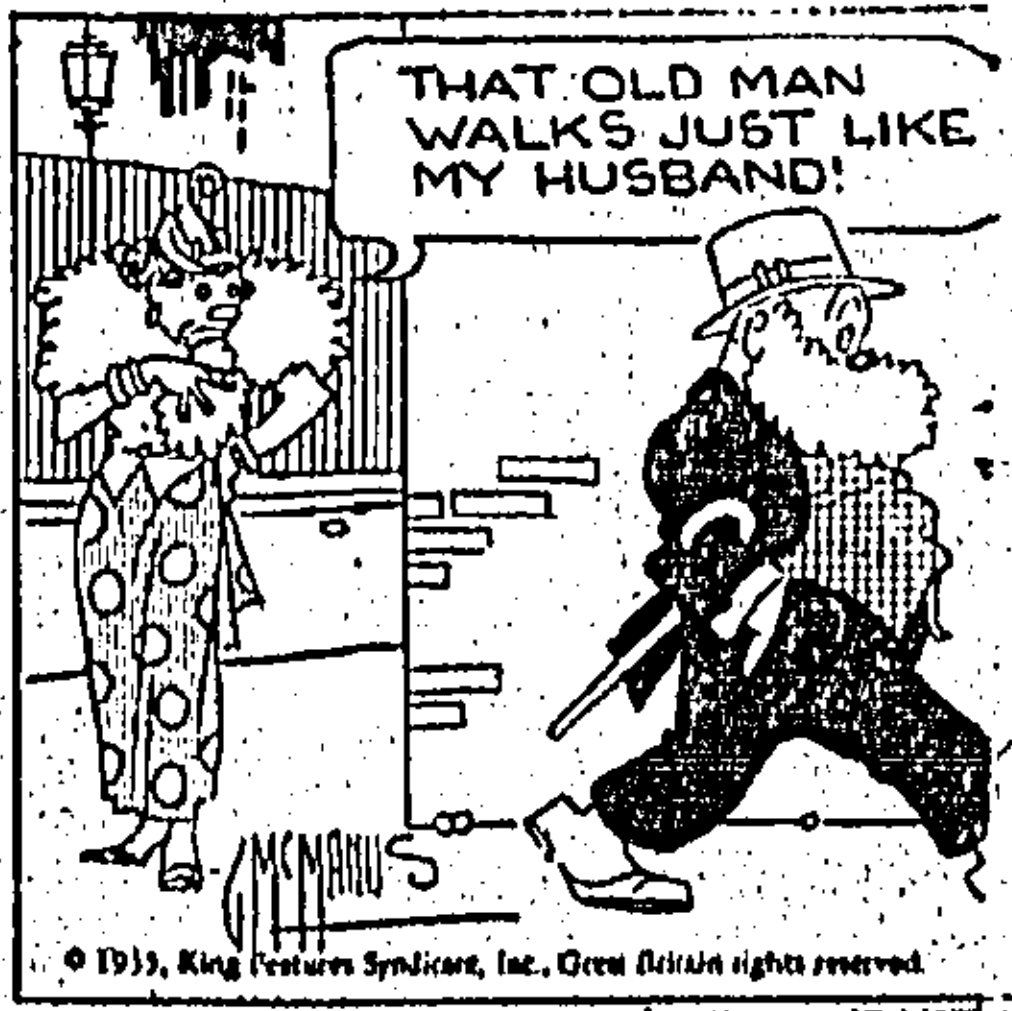

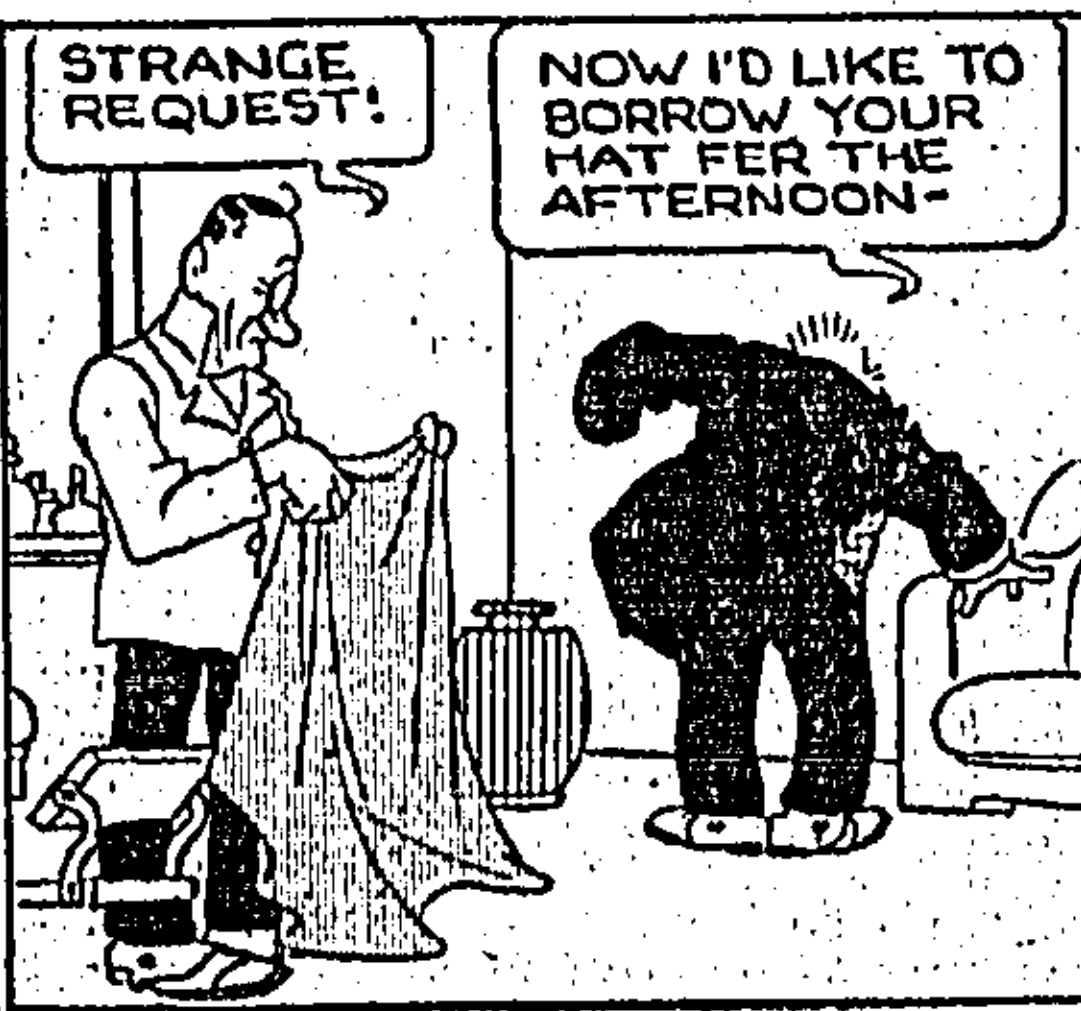

"At the back of Nakomis' wigwam rose a forest of dark and gloomy pine trees." The results

SEDAN DOORS THAT STICK

Simple Remedy For Trouble

THIS WEEK'S DRIVING HINT

Never "cut in," but always give room to pass.

"Cutting in" may be safe with a good driver or dangerous with a bad driver; but it is always bad manners. It causes the opposing traffic to slow up when the right of the road is theirs. When meeting or when being overtaken, always give the other man "his road," and give it promptly.

year he was in the front rank of his new profession. He could fight in many styles and had a number of victories to his credit. Within a year Flavius could get an engagement at any show.

Now fighting and living were Flavius's occupations, but there were times when swift-winged thoughts came to him from the past. There had been a girl, called Cynthia...

It was rumoured in the dressing rooms that the Emperor had found a new mistress on his journey north.

"That'll mean a job for us when he gets back," grunted Mirmillo.

He was right. Gladiatorial games were to be held in honour of the Emperor's return. Flavius saw the new mistress from the north in the Emperor's triumphal procession. She was still as beautiful, but more calm and passive than the Cynthia he had known; but then she had waited nearly seven years.

Flavius made one movement, as though to burst through the crowd, and then he laughed at himself and turned away. He looked at his coarse hands, shrugged, then returned—to training quarters—to listen to the wit of his colleagues on the Emperor's new mistress.

And so at the games in Cynthia's honour Flavius fought in the arena; and, for the first time in an important fight, lost.

The penalty of defeat was death. This once his Cynthia had come to give him life. Cynthia...

Cynthia sat high in the imperial box beneath the purple awning which sagged in the breathless air. The heat made her feel limp and exhausted, so that she could hardly suppress her irritation at the podgy pawing of Imperial Caesar.

Far below, on the floor of the arena, lay a gladiator, his brown face looking up into hers. She frowned at it. She was too far away to see the features distinctly, but there seemed to be something familiar in that face. Had she seen it before?

He appeared to be looking at her, but she couldn't tell at that distance. Did she really know the face? It was probably some fancy. She had only been in Rome three days, and men burned brown like that did not come from her country.

The other gladiator was waiting for her signal. He stood there staring like a silly sheep. God, how hot it was. A fly buzzed and settled on her face, and she flicked at it savagely in vain, and at that

ENGINE NOISES ARE DUE TO NEGLIGENCE

Squealing Brakes: A Nuisance

Under pressure of other affairs or laziness, many motorists neglect the mechanical condition of their cars.

Mechanical engine noises, for instance, are a case of neglect—except in a few designs.

But there is no excuse for a body noise and it is extremely irritating to the passenger. The squealing brake, elusive though it may be, is another factor which jeopardises the driver's safety from a passenger's dislike. And if you have weak rear springs, curb your exuberance on bad roads.

COMBATING THE FIRE MENACE

Value Of Asbestos Proved

There was quite a galaxy of racing celebrities present recently at a demonstration at Slough when the value of asbestos was convincingly shown in the suppression of outbreaks of fire on a car. Many of those present had, unhappy recollections of some occasion, on road or track, when owing to a crash or some other cause, fire broke out and did varying amounts of damage with considerable risk to life and limb.

During the demonstration a dummy car was set on fire, with wood-wool etc. soaked in paraffin and petrol providing most realistic flames, and a Bestobell sheet of asbestos cloth was then flung over the entire conflagration, thereby smothering the flames.

THE KING BUYS A NEW CAR

Old Coaches Are Not Comfortable

The King has taken delivery of a new car—a big 12-cylinder "double-six" Daimler—in readiness for his many State engagements this year.

The body work is carried out in the Royal colours—red and maroon. Although retained for State purposes, the old horse-drawn coaches are not comfortable, and both the King and Queen prefer to use a modern car whenever possible.

moment the Emperor's sticky hand caressed her flesh. Angriously she thrust out her hand.

Thumbs down. The signal for death.

Flavius flung back his head to receive the sword, and as he did so laughed. At that Cynthia recognised him.

She leaped forward from her seat with a cry, as the steel shortsword plunged into her victim's throat.

Cynthia swayed back. Her hand went to her breasts where that brown neck had rested.

She turned away her head and met the Emperor's inquiring gaze. So again she leaned forward, but now she pulled a flower from her coronet and flung it to the victorious Mirmillo.

REQUEST FOR REDUCTION IN LOCAL RATES

SEQUEL TO CHINESE PROTESTS

COMPANIES PETITIONED

Applications for a general reduction in the rates of the Hong Kong Electric Company, the Hong Kong Telephone Company and the Hong Kong Gas Company have been prepared by a newly appointed sub-committee of the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce, and will soon be submitted to the respective companies. If the companies concerned do not accede to the requests contained in the applications, the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce will appeal to the local Government authorities.

The following suggestions are contained in the applications: that the rate of electricity be reduced to 12 cents per unit; that the telephone monthly fee, which is at present about $11, be reduced to $8 for mercantile houses; that the rate for private telephones be fixed at $6 per month; that the security for installing the instrument be reduced from $50 to $25; and lastly, that the rate of gas be reduced to 24 cents.

The Chinese Chamber of Commerce is taking this action as a result of the numerous complaints from many prominent Chinese business men in the Colony.

BRITISH SETBACKS IN FRENCH TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIPS

AUSTIN AND MARGARET SCRIVEN LOSE SEMI-FINAL ENCOUNTERS

Paris, Yesterday.

Mme. S. Mathieu, protegee of Suzanne Lenglen, former Wimbledon champion, yesterday entered the semi-final of the French Women's Singles Lawn Tennis championship by beating Miss Peggy Scriven, the holder, by 8-6, 6-1.

The latter was attempting to secure the "hat-trick," having won the title in both the 1933 and 1934 championships.

G. von Cramm, the German Davis Cup player, successfully defended his French Open Singles Lawn tennis title yesterday when he beat H. W. "Bunny" Austin by scores of 6-2, 5-7, 6-1, 5-7, 6-0 in their semi-final round clash.

Von Cramm jumped into the limelight when he was selected for Germany's Davis Cup team in 1933, in place of Daniel Frenn, who was dropped after a brilliant court career owing to the Nazi purge.

H. W. Bunny Austin is often referred to as one of the most stylish players in the game and the acknowledged world's best player for a three-set match.

Mme. Mathieu came into major prominence about two years ago, but failed dismally last season. Her victory over Miss Scriven must be regarded as a successful comeback and makes her one of the strongest challengers for the title. She will meet the winner of the clash between Miss Helen Jacobs (U.S.) and Frau H. Sperling (Germany).

MME. MATHIEU'S CAREER
Mme. Mathieu learned her tennis at a very early age and won the Junior Championship of France in 1923-24-25. She won the British Hard Court Championship and reached the final of the French Championship, Paris, in 1931, being beaten on that occasion by Mrs. Helen Wills-Moody. She reached the semi-final of the Wimbledon championship in 1930-31, and has been ranked No. 1 in France for several years. Together with Miss E. Ryan, she is the present holder of the Wimbledon and French women's doubles titles.

In 1933, partnered by Mrs. Sperling, she won the Wimbledon Mixed

Doubles championship and was a prominence during the Junior Singles Championship at Wimbledon in 1929, when she won the title.
